APOSTLE OF THE APOSTLES

An article written by Arthur Roche,

Archbishop Secretary of the Congregation for Divine Worship and the Discipline of the Sacraments

By the express wish of the Holy Father, Pope Francis, the Congregation for Divine Worship and the Discipline of the Sacraments published a new Decree on the Solemnity of the Most Sacred Heart of Jesus, 3 June 2016, in which the celebration of Saint Mary Magdalene was elevated and inscribed in the General Roman Calendar with the rank of Feast.

This decision, in the current ecclesial context, seeks to reflect more deeply upon the dignity of women, on the new evangelisation and on the greatness of the mystery of God's Mercy. Saint John Paul II paid great attention not only to the importance of women in the mission of Christ and the Church, but also and with special emphasis on the particular role of Mary of Magdala as the first witness who saw the risen Christ, and as the first messenger who announced the Lord's resurrection to the Apostles (Mulieris dignitatem n. 16). The importance of this continues today in the Church, as is evident in the new evangelisation, which seeks to welcome all men and women "of every race, people, language and nation" (Rev 5: 9), without any distinction, to announce to them the Good News of the Gospel of Jesus Christ while accompanying them on their earthly pilgrimage, and offering them the wonders of God's salvation. Saint Mary Magdalene is an example of a true and authentic evangeliser, that is an evangelist who announces the central joyful message of Easter (cf. Collect for 22 July and the new Preface).

It is precisely in the context of the Jubilee of Mercy that our Holy Father Pope Francis has taken this decision, in order to underline the relevance of this woman "who so loved Christ and was so greatly loved by Christ", as Rabanus Maurus affirms on various occasions when he speaks of her ("dilectrix Christi et a Christo plurimum dilecta": De vita Mariae Magdalenae, Prologus), as well as Saint Anselm of Canterbury who says of her "chosen because you are beloved and beloved because you are chosen of God" ("electa dilectrix et dilecta electrix Dei": Oratio LXXIII ad sanctam Mariam Magdalenam). It is true that ecclesial tradition in the West, especially since the time of Gregory the Great, has identified Saint Mary Magdalene, and the woman who anointed Christ's feet with perfume in the house of Simon the Pharisee, and the sister of Lazarus and Martha, as one and the same person. This interpretation continued to influence western ecclesiastical authors, Christian art and liturgical texts relative to this Saint. The Bollandists made a detailed study of the problem of identifying these three women and prepared a path for the liturgical reform of the Roman Calendar. The outcome of this reform of the Second Vatican Council led to the texts of the Missale Romanum, the Liturgia Horarum and the Martyrologium referring to Mary of Magdala. What is certain is that Mary Magdalene was part of the group of Jesus' disciples, she accompanied him to the foot of the Cross and, in the garden where she met him at the tomb, was the first "witness of Divine Mercy" (Gregory the Great, XL Hom. In Evangelia, lib. II Hom. 25,10). The Gospel of John tells us that Mary Magdalene wept because she could not find the body of the Lord (Jn 20:11); and that Jesus had mercy on her by letting himself be known as her Master, thus transforming her tears into paschal joy.

Taking advantage of this opportune moment, I would like to underline two ideas inherent in the biblical and liturgical texts of this Feast which assist us to better grasp the importance of this holy woman for today.

On the one hand, she has the honour to be the first witness of the Lord's resurrection ("prima testis" – Hymnus, Ad Laudes matutinas), the first who saw the empty tomb and the first to hear the truth about his resurrection. Christ showed special consideration and mercy to this woman who showed her love for Christ by seeking him in her anguish and suffering in the garden, or as Saint Anselm says in the prayer mentioned above with "lacrimas humilitatis" ("the tears of humility"). In this way it is possible to highlight the contrast between the woman present in the garden of paradise and the woman present in the garden of the resurrection. The first spread death where there was life; the second announced life from a sepulchre, the place of death. As Gregory the Great underlines: "Quia in paradiso mulier viro propinavit mortem, a sepulcro mulier viris annuntiat vitam" ("Indeed because a woman offered death to a man in Paradise, a woman announces life to the men from the tomb": XL Hom. In Evangelia, lib. II, Hom. 25). Yet, there is more, as we see precisely in the garden of the resurrection where the Lord says to Mary, "Noli me tangere" ("Do not cling to me" Jn 20:17). This is an invitation to enter into an experience of faith that goes beyond materialistic assumptions and the human grasping after the divine Mystery which is not simply addressed to Mary but to the entire Church. This is an ecclesial moment! This is an important lesson for every disciple of Jesus Christ to neither seek human securities nor the vainglory of this world, but in faith to seek the living and risen Christ!

On the other hand, precisely because she was an eyewitness to the risen Christ, she was also the first one to bear witness to him before the Apostles. She fulfils the command of the Risen Lord: “Go to my brethren and say to them, I am ascending to my Father and your Father, to my God and your God.’ Mary Magdalene went and announced to the disciples ‘I have seen the Lord’ and she told them that he had said these things to her” (Jn 20:17-18). Thus, as already indicated she becomes an evangelist, that is a messenger who announces the Good News of the Lord’s resurrection or, as Rabanus Maurus and Saint Thomas Aquinas say, she becomes the “apostolorum apostola” because she announces to the apostles what in turn they will announce to the whole world (Rabanus Maurus, De vita beatae Mariae Magdalенаe, XXVII; Saint Thomas Aquinas, In Ioannem Evangelistam Expositio, c. XX, L. III, 6). It was with good reason that the Angelic Doctor applied this term to Mary of Magdala, for she is the witness to the risen Christ and announces the message of the Lord’s resurrection just like the rest of the Apostles. For this reason it is right that the liturgical celebration of this woman should have the same rank of Feast as that given to the celebration of the Apostles in the General Roman Calendar and that the special mission of this woman should be underlined, she who is an example and model for all women in the Church.

“He isn’t here! He is risen from the dead, just as he said would happen. Come, see where his body was lying.”

Matt 28: 6

What might be done to reduce violence between Young Black Men and Police Officers in America?

Despite having a black U.S. President and two black U.S. Attorneys General, violence between young black men and police officers continues to rise in America. There is no other nation in the world which has experienced so much violence between black youth and law enforcement officers. In fact, in a single month in New York City (January 2015), more black young men were killed by police than in any major European nation in the last twenty years. (1) One month versus twenty years! Whatever the causes, just consider the significance of this disparity between America and its European allies.

Why is violence so prevalent between black young men and cops in our country?

There are several root causes for this tension, including economic and social discrimination, mistrust of each other, on-going racism, disrespect for authority among blacks, and insensitivity of the needs of blacks by some police officers. Certainly, racism and discrimination are powerful stimulants of distrust between these two groups. Many kids don't respect cops; many cops don't respect kids. There is a prevailing mood of hostility.

How may we mitigate, if not end, this horrifying phenomenon of violence between young black men and the police in America?

It is not helpful to blame either group. What is needed are solutions to problems. Here are some solutions that have been proposed:

1. Education and jobs for the young black men. There are tenable social and moral reasons for ensuring that they have a good education and sustainable sources of income. Moreover, in purely economic terms it is much more cost effective to educate a young man than to allow him to fall into a life of crime and incarceration.
2. Both sides should be taught formal conflict resolution policies and procedures. They should also be taught how to avoid conflict in the first place.
3. Police officers should be recruited carefully to ensure that they are not violent or racist in their orientation and behavior.
4. Police officers should be provided initial education in their academies and on-going education on how best to cope with rising tensions in our communities.
5. When violence does erupt the most nonlethal means should be adopted. There also should be open, transparent and accurate communication about what led to the violence and how it might have been prevented without risk of injury to either party.
6. There should be formal and independent review processes involving a special local body of trusted and respected officials and leaders of the black community.
7. Local, state and federal judiciaries should play a more active role in ensuring full compliance with all applicable laws and regulations.
8. Perhaps, there should be a return to the use of more policemen and policewomen walking "the beat" to patrol our local communities to foster goodly relations between kids and cops.
9. We should explore non-lethal weapons that will subdue criminals and protect our police forces.
10. The police should seek to use lethal weapons in non-lethal ways whenever possible if the other weapons—tasers, tear gas, etc.—are not effective in a particular circumstance.
11. Ultimately, the solution must also involve hope, opportunities, jobs, and communication, all leading to respect and trust. Without hope and opportunity, what may either side anticipate?

Today, there is great fear and anger in each community about the other. However, with concerted efforts by both groups, fear and anger can and should be replaced by trust and cooperation. Why not try?

Parish News & Events

Week-day Masses

During the Summer months, we encourage parishioners to attend either or both the morning and evening Masses at St. Mary Magdalen. They are a wonderful time during which to enjoy the Liturgy and to worship God. Please join us as often as you can.

The Services are at 8:00 a.m. and again at 5:30 p.m.

Invitation to join our Rosary after daily Masses

You are invited to join us in our daily Rosary after morning Mass during the week.

A Message from your Saint Vincent de Paul Conference

We will be hosting a Bundle Weekend July 30-31. We are asking for your small appliances and household items in good working condition. We would also appreciate clothes, especially "business casual" clothes. Your donations will be delivered to the St. Vincent de Paul Store in Oakland.

July 30-31 is also our next fifth Sunday collection. Your financial help is greatly appreciated. We continue to receive several calls a week for food, also rent and utility assistance.

If you would like to learn more about our work, please come to our next meeting, Monday August 1st 7 pm Norton Hall.

Thanks!

Recycling – You Be the Judge

The Church's recycling program has been in existence for almost one year. Look at the contents of the containers in the Parish and Norton Halls and decide if you think the Parish is following the instructions on the signs.

Quick Review: Berkeley's rules are different from other adjacent cities. Forget what you do outside of Berkeley.

Discarded food and food stained paper (pizza boxes, paper plates & cups, napkins, etc.) go in Compost (Green).

Not all plastics are recyclable – plastic utensils, plastic bags, plastic straws, candy bar and chip wrappers, juice boxes - all go into the Garbage (Black).

Completely clean paper/cardboard go in the Paper Recycling (Gray). Please break down the cardboard boxes.

SUMMER HELP NEEDED FOR 1ST AND 4TH DINNERS FOR THE POOR AND HOMELESS

Many of our regular volunteers will be away from now thru Labor Day. Please consider helping out. The next Sunday's dinner, would be a good place to start. No experience is needed. We set up/cook from 12 to 1PM, prepare to serve at 2:45 and clean up at 3:30. We especially need volunteers to clean up.

Desserts are always welcome and can be brought to the Parish Hall by 1:30.

News for the Bulletin?

Please submit your request by 5 p.m. on Thursday for the upcoming respective Sunday (10 days later) via email in a Word file attached to your email using Palatino Linotype font 12.

Please send your news or other items to the Interim Business Manager, Scott Redding Mixer at smixer@marymagdalen.org. Thank you very much.

Summer Volunteer Positions

Starting in July, we have volunteer positions for university students and others who will receive training and have great fun working in the Parish Office. The projections include working on:

- Church website
- Church bulletin
- Church database
- Church filing system

If you are interested, please call Lorna on the Church telephone number: (510) 526-4811, ext 11.
